Now, Let's Talk Interests

Theme	Score (0-100)	Level of Interest
Conventioneel	90
Realistisch	70
Sociaal	40
Ondernemend	20
Onderzoekend	10
Artistiek	10

Conventioneel

Your Score: 90

People with Conventioneel interests prefer to work with data and like rules and regulations and emphasize self-control. They like structure and order, and dislike unstructured or unclear work and interpersonal situations. They also value power and status.

Realistisch

Your Score: 70

People with Realistisch interests like to work with things and are assertive and competitive. They tend to focus on activities requiring motor coordination, skill and strength and prefer to work a problem through by doing something, rather than talking about it, or sitting and thinking about it. They are also drawn to concrete approaches to problem solving, rather than abstract theory and scientific and mechanical areas, rather than aesthetic ones.

Sociaal

Your Score: 40

People with Sociaal interests like to work with people and seem to satisfy their needs in teaching or helping situations. They tend to be drawn more to seek close relationships with other people and are less apt to want to be really intellectual or physical.

Ondernemend

Your Score: 20

People with Ondernemend interests like to work with people and data. They tend to be good talkers and use this skill to lead or persuade others. They are also drawn to high power situations, valuing power, money and status.

Onderzoekend

Your Score: 10

People with Onderzoekend interests prefer to think and observe rather than act, and to organize and understand information rather than to persuade. They are also drawn to working with data and facts over working with people and feelings.

Artistiek

Your Score: 10

People with Artistiek interests like to work with ideas and things. They tend to be creative, open, inventive, original, perceptive, sensitive, independent and emotional. They rebel against structure and rules and dislike tasks involving people or physical skills.

Job Zones

Your Job Zone: Job Zone One - Little or No Preparation Needed

Most job titles require some level of experience, training, and/or education before you can qualify for a job in that position. For instance, a surgeon may require many years of education and training, while a construction worker may require little or no prior experience or training.

A Job Zone is a group of occupations that are similar in:

- how much education people need to do the work.
- how much related experience people need to do the work.
- how much on-the-job training people need to do the work.

Our goal is to present you with jobs that BOTH match your interests AND your current experience, education or training.

Here's a summary of the five Job Zones:

Job Zone One: Little or No Preparation Needed

Education:	May require a high school diploma or GED certificate.
Related Experience:	Little or no previous work-related skill, knowledge, or experience is needed. For example, a person can become a waiter or waitress even if he/she has never worked before.
Job Training:	Usually requires a few days to a few months of training.

Job Zone Two: Some Preparation Needed

Education:	Usually requires a high school diploma or GED certificate.
Related Experience:	Some previous work-related skill, knowledge, or experience is usually needed. For example, a teller would benefit from experience working directly with the public.
Job Training:	Usually requires a few months to a year of training. May also require an apprenticeship.

Job Zone Three: Medium Preparation Needed

Education:	Usually requires training in a vocational school, related job experience, or specialized education after high school.
Related Experience:	Previous work-related skill, knowledge, or experience is required for these occupations. For example, an electrician must have completed three or four years of apprenticeship or several years of vocational training, and often must have passed a licensing exam, in order to perform the job.
Job Training:	Requires 1-2 years of formal and on-the-job training.

Job Zone Four: Considerable Preparation Needed

Education:	Usually requires a four-year bachelor's degree or significant related work experience.
Related Experience:	A considerable amount of work-related skill, knowledge, or experience is needed for these occupations. For example, an accountant must complete four years of college and work for several years in accounting to be considered qualified.
Job Training:	Usually requires several years of on-the-job training interspersed with periodic formal job-training courses.

Job Zone Five: Extensive Preparation Needed

Education:	Often requires an advanced college degree, such as a master's degree or Ph.D.
Related Experience:	Extensive skill, knowledge, and experience are needed for these occupations. Many require more than five years of experience. For example, surgeons must complete four years of college and an additional five to seven years of specialized medical training to be able to do their job.
Job Training:	Usually doesn't require specific training. Candidates are expected to have gained the necessary skills and knowledge from prior work experience.

How do I use this information?

Didn't like any of your job matches? It often helps to know how well your interests align with different types of jobs. Job categories are broad groups of related jobs that can guide you in choosing a direction for your career. If a category matches highly with you and your interests, you should expect to enjoy most of the jobs in that category. Additionally, since your interests are aligned, you will probably excel at that job and have a stable, rewarding career over the long-term.

Remember that the ranked categories shown here are based on what you appear to be interested in. They are only guidelines and they are not based on your skills and abilities. You may still need to obtain training to pursue a job within any of these categories. But experience has shown that when your work is aligned with your interests, you are happier and more productive at work.

Suggestions Regarding Your Competency Scores

Personality Characteristics
Name	Score	Developmental Suggestions
Bedrijfsburgerschap	Risk / Development Area (Far below average)	Being a good corporate citizen means placing the needs of your organization above your own needs. This means understanding the spirit and intent of the organization's mission and objectives, and making decisions that are consistent with that intent. Here are some things to think about or do: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ensure you fully understand the company's mission statement, vision, and corporate objectives. If there is a values statement, be sure you read it and understand it. • Volunteer for activities that contribute to the general functioning of the organization. For instance, you can organize the company holiday party, represent the company at a recruiting fair, or plan a town hall meeting or forum to address an issue related to the company mission. • At town hall and other group meetings, ask questions relating to the companies overall mission and objectives, rather than about things that mostly impact you or a small group of employees.
Competitief	Excellent (Far above average)	Being too competitive can be damaging at work because it often places the organization's goals behind your own, or it can lead to behaviors that trample the efforts of others. However, it doesn't have to be that way. Being competitive is a wonderful thing, as long as it manifests itself in a productive way. If you know you are a competitive person, you can limit the collateral damage using the following techniques:

Personality Characteristics

- Give yourself adequate time to achieve your goals. Take a little pressure off, and you'll give yourself more time to consider the others around you.
- Set realistic goals for yourself. Don't reach too far, too quickly. Take a more methodical approach.
- Recognize when your actions will have a negative affect on others. See your actions from their perspective - before you do it. If you sense a negative reaction, stop and think twice before you move forward. If you still end up impacting someone else, do whatever it takes to make it right.
- Be willing to fully and freely admit your mistakes and shortcomings, and take positive actions to fix them.
- Be proud of the accomplishments of others. Highly competitive people are often threatened by others who meet their goals. Learn to recognize that 'threatened' feeling and ask yourself why you feel that way, then help that person celebrate - sincerely.

Expressief en extravert	Risk / Development Area (Far above average)	Sharing opinions, ideas, and feelings is very easy for some people. However, you can go too far and be so expressive that people tune you out.
--------------------------------	---	--

- Be conscious of your talking time when you have the floor. Don't dominate every conversation. Allow others at least equal time.
- Focus on listening, not speaking. It may not come naturally, but a good listener earns trust faster than anyone else.

Streeft perfectie na	Risk / Development Area (Far above average)	Being too much of a perfectionist can seriously impact your performance on the job by causing you to take too long to get anything done. We all want to do a good job and no one wants to submit work that has errors in it, but the system works best when everyone finds a balance between meeting deadlines and other time expectations, and making sure there are no errors.

- Find the line. Know the difference between healthy and neurotic perfectionism. Get a feel for what is "Good Enough."
- If you're worried something isn't perfect, just tell the person you pass it on to and offer to review it some more. This way, they know you aren't absolutely sure it's perfect, and you've given them the choice to accept it "as is" or ask for more from you.

How we created this report

We used your responses to questions in all of the questions in the test, in conjunction with data provided by the U.S. Federal Government Occupational Information Network (O*Net) and the U.S. Department of Labor’s Bureau of Labor Statistics. O*Net provides up-to-date information about nearly 1,000 different types of jobs. Data available includes knowledge, skills, abilities, tasks, work styles, and many other features associated with each job, such as experience level and education level requirements. The O*Net database is updated frequently and has become the world’s foremost compendium of job descriptive data. We use the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) database for information about the number of actual jobs of various types and average annual wages.

HR Avatar uses the responses to questions in the assessment to calculate your degree of each relevant feature or character trait. We then match these calculated values with values in the O*Net database to determine which jobs have the highest overall match.

Why aren't there any test scores?

There are no right or wrong answers to most of the questions used to generate this report. Therefore, they don’t really have scores. However, they are used to estimate your degree of interest in various classes of jobs, such as jobs that require artistic ability or social skills. When an actual pre-employment assessment is used in conjunction with the interest and experience survey, your scores are kept confidential and are only shared with the sponsoring employer.
